B-onza, R-regional, I-nteresting Plates; or call them

'Black River Inn Tapas'

Our favourite way to eat... 'pick and mix and share'. We suggest 5 different plates between 2 people (you can always add more after). Our kitchen team will send plates out as and when they are ready, less waits, more things to taste, not too many plates at any one time, and a fun way to enjoy lots of flavours....

The Covid-19 pandemic has been a whirlwind. Who knew back on Friday the 20 March 2020; when the government forced all pubs and hospitality to close that 3 nationwide lockdowns would follow. Many varying rules, restrictions and more have since been enforced, and once again we find ourselves open with some of these in place. Over the last year we used the time to do many things including, changing our supply chains to local suppliers, offering low food miles, seasonal produce from as close to us as possible. Start our own vegetable and herb garden to supply our kitchen with produce from right here in the BRI garden and further the business towards a more sustainable and environmentally sound one, including reducing the plastic use here onsite by 70%, switching out our cleaning items to products that are better for the eco-systems, and using a recycled toilet paper that gives back to charity to name a few (more details will be available on our website and for you to read here on-site in due-course).

Our biggest and most significant change has been to cut out fossil fuel usage in the kitchen. For many years we have been discussing ideas of cooking on solid fuel, and in this long period of closure and restriction, we decided to turn that idea into a reality. We even went as mad as to cut the supply of the gas leading to the kitchen- so there was no going back! Our wood burning hearth includes a wood-burning oven that produces the embers for use under pan rings, grill, and stove top (heated with the self-produced charcoal). Our menu is designed to showcase this style of cooking whilst also allowing the local and seasonal food stuffs sourced to shine in their own rights.

We have always enjoyed cooking and eating and believe going to the pub should be fun. We and our fabulous team cannot wait for the day when we can go-back-to-normal. In the meantime, we thank you for all your continued support and understanding while we enforce the restrictions needed to allow for opening. We do ask for your patience particularly at peak times as we not only cater for pub-goers but still offer a take-away and delivery service (within the village).

We hope you enjoy your time with us!

Thank you, Gill & Alex Xx
